

Abstract

A process for the production of bulk materials containing small quantities of one or more active substances by application of liquids, in which a) the active substance is dissolved in water or optionally emulsified with the addition of an emulsifier and b) the solution or emulsion containing water, active substances and optionally emulsifier is applied on to the bulk material, which is in particular mixed feed for animal nutrition.

LIT/813496.2